Teach Entrepreneurship and Societal Wealth Venturing

The key responsibilities of the Entrepreneurship Teacher are to implement the school's Social Impact & Responsibility curriculum, which is built around the undergraduate concentration of the same name at Wharton School of Business. The social enterprise program has a foundation in business fundamentals and corporate finance in ninth grade and expands to include close study of entrepreneurship, impact investing and macroeconomics in future grades.

For this course, societal wealth venturing is defined as entrepreneurship used as a market-based catalyst to profitably confront social problems. This definition views societal wealth venturing as a distinct alternative to public sector initiatives. The basic thesis is that many social problems, if looked at through an entrepreneurial lens create opportunity for someone to launch a venture that generates profits by alleviating that social problem. This sets in motion a virtuous cycle – the entrepreneur is incited to generate more profits and in so doing, the more profits made, the more the problem is alleviated.
